Fear of Crime: Interpreting Victimization Risk: Ferraro ...

The fear of crime refers to the fear of being a victim of crime as opposed to the actual probability of being a victim of crime. The fear of crime, along with fear of the streets and the fear of youth, is said to have been in Western culture for "time immemorial". While fear of crime can be differentiated into public feelings, thoughts and behaviors about the personal risk of criminal victimization, distinctions can also be made between the tendency to see situations as fearful, the actual exper

Fear of crime - Wikipedia

The most recent treatment of fear of crime clearly distinguishes these two constructs and views perceived risk as preceding and causing fear. In an attempt to bring greater clarity to this area of study, a few researchers have advocated to use "fear of victimization" as a more precise term rather than "fear of crime" (Warr and Stafford 1983 , see Theoretical Explanations and Perceived Risk).
